

HomeSite 4.0

Allaire is delivering the latest version of its web development tool, HomeSite 4.0, to those who know how to code and like accurate HTML.

But, for the first time, HomeSite now features a design view that lets webpage developers create pages visually. This aids rapid delivery; however, most of the new features are geared for developers who know HTML and want to keep the pages fast and lean.

Allaire's site is www.allaire.com.

Meta-Search Infoseek

Infoseek Express is a free application that searches Infoseek, Yahoo, Excite, and other search engines from a single command.

It works with Netscape Navigator and Microsoft Internet Explorer web browsers. The results of the searches are saved to the user's computer for faster navigation.

Sharing Internet Access

If the users of your office or home network would each like to access the Internet, look at RideWay. This software securely shares your one Internet account with all network users.

Product details are posted at dgl.com/rideway/
